

The 2017 season is well under way (the nights are already drawing in!) and our volunteers are kept busy with a steady stream of Sunday visitors and group visits. There have also been some unusual events to enliven the summer.

Vintage car clubs visit the mill

Throughout the summer, we're having a series of visits by vintage car groups, which make a fine sight parked in our attractive mill grounds -

Also Singers, Cavaliers and Chevettas, and many others.

You never know what you might see on a Sunday afternoon!

School visits

We have a very full programme of school visits again - with activities such as pond dipping and bread making to complement the childrens' experience of life as a Victorian miller's family. Of course, a variety of older children are also enjoying their customised visits - U3A, WI, Probus, and similar!

Bunbury Mill to be on the Telly again!

Building on our success with 'Oaty Porridge', we spent a morning in June with the BBC's Bargain Hunt team showing Eric Knowles around the mill, prior to the Bargain Hunt auction to be held at Nantwich the following day.

The resulting programme will be shown in the autumn
